CCSN Libraries & Writing Centers:

It’s the same old story. You want your students to get the benefits of a critical research based writing assignment. You come up with a great project, present the guidelines to your class, field question after question about the assignment, deal with extensions and late papers, collect the papers, and then the “real fun” begins.

NEVER AGAIN! Let the CCSN Libraries and the Writing Centers, located on all three campuses, be the solution for you and your students. Each campus library has hundreds of art books and many magazine subscriptions like: ARTFORUM, Art in America, Metalsmith, ARTnews, and Art Week, but most importantly each library has friendly, knowledgeable staff who are there to assist you and your students. This, coupled with amazing web resources like: “e-books,” access to thousands of magazines, journals, and newspapers, online writing guides, and databases like ARTstor, makes the CCSN Libraries truly one of your greatest and perhaps most underutilized teaching tools. Contact the Reference Desk on each campus to learn more, or to suggest new acquisitions, or to schedule an appointment for your class. Charleston 651-5729, Cheyenne 651-4419 or Henderson 651-3039.

Writing Centers on each campus provide trained Writing Assistants to help students of all levels. These writing experts can help assist students with any stage of the writing process. They are available during normal school hours and students never need an appointment. Charleston 651-7402, Cheyenne 651-4101, and Henderson 651-3187.

After hours or at home, students are just a click away from writing support with SMARTHINKING, www.smarthinking.com (Username: ccsn07t1 / Password: success). SMARTHINKING is available 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. At SMARTHINKING Students are tutored by real professionals most with Masters or PhD degrees! Questions, call 651-5619.
